COLLAGE (Collections Online: A Digital Library of American Immigration and Ethnic History) is the Immigration History Research Center's online searchable database of digitized items from its photograph, print, and manuscript collections.

Launched in June 2002, COLLAGE includes archival materials representing multiple ethnic groups, with descriptive information for each image. This digital documentation creates an opportunity for researchers, teachers, students, and the public to access these unique materials on the Web.

Online items include images of home life, social activities, and work scenes as well as letters and publications, all relating to the immigrant experience.

COLLAGE promotes research through building a digital image collection, developing online tools to aid in its use and discovery, and providing broad access through the Web .

Support for COLLAGE comes from a generous matching award administered by the National Park Service and the National Trust for Historic Preservation's joint heritage preservation program Save America's Treasures, a public-private partnership between the White House Millennium Council and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Additional funding will be sought to help expand the project over the next several years ensuring that the number of historical resources available online will increase.

Search results provide descriptive and provenance information, standardized subject headings, and physical characteristics
